

Sept. 26, 2011

To Whom It May Concern:

My son Christopher started attending Providence Montessori in Fresno since last year when he was two. We were looking for a small class size with a Montessori curriculum that was close to home. We met Ms. Komal at the Clovis Farmers Market and we feel so fortunate that she started up her school here in Fresno!

Christopher loves going to school at Montessori. He enjoys the small group setting and making friends with the other children. Ms. Komal is a warm and loving teacher who truly cares for each of the children in her class. She is structured and organized and sends weekly emails to us parents with updated schedules and pictures of our children at school. It is also fun to see the art projects and lessons he's been learning, which he often brings home in a folder on Fridays.

Being busy parents, we especially appreciate the flexibility that Ms. Komal has offered to us. I am grateful that I can drop off Christopher at her home in the mornings and that she makes sure that he finishes his meals and snacks, takes a nap, etc. She has helped him also in his potty-training. Of course, as a certified Montessori instructor, Ms. Komal offers more than just childcare. She is a wonderful teacher and has helped our son to learn so much. We feel we have the best of both worlds by sending our son to her school.

Ms. Komal's school/home is always clean and organized. I can leave him at school every day knowing that he will be safe, well-cared for, and that he will enjoy his day. Christopher enjoys going to school, where he can play with the classroom rabbit, observe butterflies and frogs, paint pictures on the easel, climb on the swingset, and of course, be free to work on the activities that he is most interested in. He is stimulated by the hands-on Montessori curriculum and I have been continually impressed by the new skills and knowledge he has gained. He has learned independence, self-control, social skills, and self-confidence by attending Providence Montessori.

I would highly recommend Providence Montessori to anyone looking for a safe, peaceful learning environment for their child.

Sincerely,

Julie Han